corrections/amplifications the data that goes into judging the judges the wall street journal spring is in the air for baseball fans federal judges call the shots in selecting new federal judges brown seeks funds to fix infrastructure consumer sentiment remains elevated in china, the internet is getting big federal court chief targets rule on privacy decrease

since 2013, the american bar association has recommended that the afa begin penalizing federal judges who refuse to issue orders, but the afa began rating potential federal judges at the request of president donald trump, who made move to increase the number of federal judges who are available. after all, federal judges matter. their decisions can make or break cases. and after all, their salaries can come to more than $200,000 a year. it makes sense for them to be given due respect and review.